

Amendment of Denied Physical at Military Entrance Processing Station (MEPS) Process: The process for amending the Chief Medical Officer (CMO) recommendation to decline a physical exam

Description

The CMO at the Military Entrance Processing Station has the authority to decline a physical exam for an ARNG applicant. This happens when the CMO feels the applicant has a condition that would cause the applicant to be found unfit for accession medically.

This process is the opportunity for the applicant to provide documentation showing additional data that could “override” the CMO’s decision.

ARNG-CSG holds the final authority for approving an override for an applicant.
